

ABOUT THE CONTRIBUTORS

Nadeen Aljijakli is a partner at Aljijakli & Kosseff, LLC, an immigration law firm with offices in Cleveland and New York City. She specializes in family-based immigration, asylum, and complex removal defense. Aljijakli is a leading attorney in the country for Syrian asylum claims. In August 2013, she was featured in a Huffington Post article, “Top Ten List: Muslims Who Save Lives.” Ms. Aljijakli received her undergraduate degree in economics from New York University and her law degree from Brooklyn Law School. She is a native Arabic speaker.

Clayton E. Cartwright, Jr., is the founding and managing member of The Cartwright Law Firm, LLC, in Columbus, GA, which specializes in the areas of international taxation and employee benefits. A frequent speaker and author for immigration law seminars and practice guides, Mr. Cartwright advises businesses, financial institutions, attorneys, accountants, investment advisors, and individuals on matters, such as expatriate taxation, cross-border employee transfers, withholding and reporting requirements, and permanent establishments. He earned his undergraduate degree in accounting from The College of William & Mary and his law degree from the Georgetown University Law Center.

Ofelia L. Calderón is a partner at the boutique firm of Calderón, Racine, & Derwin in Arlington, VA. She handles family- and employment-based immigration cases, as well as naturalization, asylum, detention, and removal matters. Ms. Calderón also contributes her time to the BIA Pro Bono Screening Project, and is well known for her commitment to the immigration community and bar at large.

Fabienne Chatain is a partner at Lichtman & Elliot, P.C. in Washington, D.C. She has more than 20 years of expertise in the field of immigration law, ranging from family- and employment-based immigration matters to litigation before the administrative bodies and federal courts. Ms. Chatain has been recognized by The Washington Post as one of the D.C. area’s “Best Lawyers” in the field of immigration law. She is a graduate of Georgetown University Law Center and Jean Moulin University Law School in France.

Dree K. Collopy is a partner at Benach Ragland LLP in Washington, D.C. She handles matters concerning removal defense, asylum, VAWA, U petitions, waivers of inadmissibility, complex adjustment of status and naturalization applications, and federal court litigation. She serves as the chair of AILA’s Asylum and Refugee Committee and as an adjunct professor at The Catholic University of America Columbus School of Law, where she teaches the Immigration Litigation Clinic.

Michael H. Davis is managing partner at Davis & Goldfarb, PLLC, with offices in Minneapolis and Tel Aviv. He has practiced immigration law since 1987, with a particular focus on complex admissibility issues relating to criminal conduct, fraud, and unlawful presence, before various courts and administrative agencies. Mr. Davis is past chair of the Minnesota State Bar Association's Immigration Law Section, AILA's Minnesota-Dakotas Chapter, and AILA's DHS International Operations Committee. He is also co-editor of The Consular Practice Handbook (AILA 2012–13 Ed.), as well as a frequent lecturer and author on a wide variety of immigration topics in the United States and abroad.

Gary Endelman is senior counsel with FosterQuan, LLP. His practice includes I-9 compliance and audits, E-Verify compliance, immigration issues related to mergers and acquisitions, employment-based nonimmigrant visas, B-1 OCS, permanent residence petitions for international executives, aliens of extraordinary ability, outstanding researchers, PERM labor certification, naturalization, and the derivation and transmission of U.S. citizenship. Mr. Endelman graduated with a B.A. in history from the University of Virginia, a Ph.D. in U.S. history from the University of Delaware, and a J.D. from the University of Houston.

Maurice H. Goldman works with his mother, Gloria Goldman, at Goldman & Goldman, P.C. in Tuscon. He earned a J.D. and an M.B.A. from Hofstra University, as well as a B.S. in journalism from Syracuse University. Mr. Goldman is very active in AILA, having served as a member of multiple national AILA committees, as well as the chair of the Arizona Chapter. He is also a trustee to the American Immigration Council and a board member of ASISTA and Immigrants' List.

Myriam Jaidi, an associate with Cyrus D. Mehta & Associates, PLLC, represents clients in employment-, family-, and humanitarian-based applications, as well as removal proceedings and consular matters. Ms. Jaidi has authored articles for AILA publications and for the firm's website. She has trained and mentored pro bono attorneys in asylum, trafficking, U visa, and VAWA cases, as well as immigration consequences of crimes. She received her J.D. from the University of Michigan Law School.

Mary Kenney is a senior attorney with the Legal Action Center of the American Immigration Council (AIC). She has litigated cases in the federal courts of appeals and districts courts around the country, including class actions. Before joining AIC, Ms. Kenney served as the executive director of the Texas Lawyers'

Committee, a statewide immigrant and refugee rights project. She also worked as a legal services attorney in West Virginia. Ms. Kenney is a graduate of Antioch School of Law.

Megan Kludt is an associate with Curran & Berger LLP in Massachusetts. She focuses on complex immigration cases in the areas of business, family, and academia. Ms. Kludt also is an expert in client representation at USCIS interviews and in the immigration courts in Boston and Hartford. She graduated from Georgetown University and Boston University School of Law, and is fluent in Spanish and Brazilian Portuguese.

Kathrin S. Mautino practices in San Diego. She is certified as a specialist in immigration and nationality law by the California State Bar. She is regularly asked to speak and write on a variety of immigration-related topics for local, regional, and national audiences including AILA. Ms. Mautino has an affinity for citizenship and nationality issues, and is considered an expert on the topic. Recently, she became a commissioner on the Immigration and Nationality Advisory Committee to the State Bar of California, and she presently serves on AILA's Military Assistance Program taskforce.

Cyrus D. Mehta, a graduate of Cambridge University and Columbia Law School, is the managing member of Cyrus D. Mehta & Associates, PLLC in New York City. He is the current chair of AILA's Ethics Committee; special counsel on immigration matters to the Departmental Disciplinary Committee, Appellate Division, First Department, New York; and a member of the ABA Commission on Immigration Advisory Committee. He is a frequent speaker and writer on various immigration-related issues, including ethics, and is also an adjunct professor at Brooklyn Law School. Mr. Mehta received the AILA 2011 Michael Maggio Memorial Award for his outstanding efforts in providing pro bono representation in the immigration field.

Victoria F. Neilson is the former legal director of Immigration Equality, a national organization advocating for immigration rights for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and HIV-positive individuals and their families. She serves on AILA's LGBT Working Group. Ms. Neilson is also the editor and co-author of Immigration Law and the Transgender Client (AILA 2008). She received the LGBT Law Association of Greater New York (Le-Gal) Community Vision award in 2009. Ms. Neilson graduated from Harvard University and the CUNY School of Law, and currently teaches the LGBT Rights Clinic at New York University School of Law as an adjunct professor.

Daniel J. Parisi is a partner at TGL Shipley Parisi in London. He has practiced immigration law since receiving his J.D. from New York Law School in 2003.

Mr. Parisi focuses on business immigration, U.S. consular law, and waivers of ineligibility for those with criminal issues. He is the chair of the communications committee of AILA's Rome District Chapter, and he serves as the editor of its quarterly publication, "When in Rome..." Mr. Parisi speaks Spanish and French.

Robert Pauw is a partner at Gibbs Houston Pauw in Seattle and teaches immigration law at Seattle University School of Law. He specializes in immigration-related litigation and has represented plaintiffs in many significant immigration cases. Mr. Pauw is one of the founding members of the Northwest Immigrant Rights Project in Seattle, and has served on the board of trustees of the American Immigration Council and the American Immigration Lawyers Association. He is also the author of Litigating Immigration Cases in Federal Court (AILA 3d Ed. 2013); "Plenary Power: An Outmoded Doctrine," 51 Emory L.J. 1095 (2002); and "A New Look at Deportation as Punishment: Why at Least Some of the Constitution's Criminal Procedure Protections Must Apply," 52 Admin. L. Rev. (2000). Mr. Pauw has received numerous awards, including AILA's Jack Wasserman Award for Excellence in Litigation.

Cliff Rosenthal specializes in immigration law. He is a member of AILA's Board of Publications, as well as a past chair of AILA's Religious Worker Committee and a former member of AILA's Health Care Committee. Mr. Rosenthal is also listed in The International Who's Who of Corporate Immigration Lawyers.

Laurel Scott is the founding attorney at Scott and Associates. She started work on her first waiver of inadmissibility in 2003, and quickly realized that waivers were an ideal niche for her new firm. Over the years, Ms. Scott has emerged as one of the nation's leading experts on waivers, publishing numerous articles on the subject and speaking at many events for immigration lawyers. She received a bachelor's degree from Simon's Rock College, a master's degree from Duke University, and a law degree from Temple University, where she completed the Temple University Immigration Law Clinical.

Michael A. Sisitzky is a staff attorney at Immigration Equality. His work focuses on representation and advocacy for lesbian and gay binational couples and their families. He has spoken frequently on the difficulties faced by lesbian and gay couples in the immigration context, as well as on the best practices for overcoming the challenges that LGBT families continue to face, even with federal recognition of their marriages. Mr. Sisitzky received his law degree from the Georgetown University Law Center and completed his undergraduate studies at New York University.

Margaret D. Stock is a member of the Alaska Bar and earned her undergraduate, graduate, and law degrees at Harvard University. A retired lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve Military Police Corps, she was named a 2013 MacArthur Fellow by the John D. & Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation. Ms. Stock is the author of Immigration Law & the Military (AILA 2012) and co-author of Professionals: A Matter of Degree (AILA 5th Ed. 2009) with Martin Lawler. She is the principal attorney at Cascadia Cross Border Law Group LLC in Anchorage.

Lourdes Santos Tancinco is the principal of Tancinco Law Offices in San Francisco. She has practiced immigration law for 21 years. Ms. Tancinco has spoken at various immigration law workshops conducted by community-based organizations and AILA. She also writes weekly immigration law columns in local and national newspapers.

Massiell Tercero-Parker is a senior paralegal at Curran & Berger LLP in Massachusetts. She specializes in lawful-permanent-resident applications for families and humanitarian options for unaccompanied minors, and has led the firm's efforts to coordinate legal consultations with undocumented students. Ms. Tercero-Parker also has contributed to various editions of AILA's The Consular Practice Handbook. She graduated from Smith College with a B.A. in history and a concentration in Latin American, Portuguese, and Brazilian Studies, and is fluent in English and Spanish.

Jonathan Willmoth is the owner of Willmoth Immigration Law, in Kansas City, MO. He is chair of the AILA Missouri-Kansas Chapter, as well as a frequent AILA presenter both locally and nationally. Mr. Willmoth has published a number of articles, including co-authoring "Issues in Abandonment of LPR Status," Immigration Practice Pointers 429 (AILA 2011–12 Ed.). He received his J.D. from the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

Richard Yemm is an associate attorney with the Wolfsdorf Immigration Law Group in Santa Monica, CA. He handles family- and employment-based immigration cases, as well as removal defense. Mr. Yemm is licensed to practice law in California and New York, and is certified by the California State Bar as an immigration and nationality law specialist. He graduated with honors from the University of Exeter School of Law in the United Kingdom.

Ana T. Yngelmo is a solo practitioner in Newark, NJ. Her practice is dedicated exclusively to immigration law, with a primary focus on family-based immigration, citizenship and naturalization, inadmissibility waivers, and deportation defense. She earned a B.S. in economics from The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and a J.D. from the Seton Hall University School of Law.